The Wonder of the Nativity

JMT

How dearly we all love the oft-told Christmas story of an undistinguished Jewish family whose first-born son came into the world so inconveniently as they reached their journey's end but could find no accommodation.

Only two of the Gospel writers wrote of this eventful birth. They were, of course, St. Mathew and St. Luke. Each told it from a different angle. We believe St. Mathew's version came first at about 60 A.D. tracing the Child Jesus through King David's line and fulfilling the Jewish prophecy of a Messiah.

Twenty years later St. Luke wrote in Greek of the miraculous conception and birth in Bethlehem. For non-Jewish converts, this would ring true since the couple's ancestral origins were in that town where they must register under a census order from Rome.

Thus, through the ages, Christians celebrate the wondrous fact that Almighty God came to earth as an infant and grew-up in a humble Jewish home.

Mary was, maybe, remembering Hannah's conception response in song (I Samuel - Chapter 1 and 2:1-10) when pouring out her own annunciation paean of praise as God's chosen vessel.

Scholars continue to blend the prophecies about the birth of Christ as mentioned in the above Gospels.

Then what about those foreign dignitaries from the East? It is suggested they were astrologers. Were there only three? How long must the journey have taken? It was 200 years before those learned men acquired their illustrious names in Holy Writ, and even longer before they were raised to be called kings in early Scripture. Rich they must have been with those rare and costly gifts!

Such queries are fascinating. Ancient prophecies came to pass in the time and place of God's choosing and culminated in the amazing, ground-breaking ministry of Jesus.

The birth of Jesus began an earth-shaking movement which grew into the International Christian community which is alive today. Our message remains that God, in His inscrutable plan, intervened in the universe through the Babe of Bethlehem who grew up, was crucified for the sins of mankind, died, rose and ascended from His homeland we call the Holy Land. Thus was ensured man's salvation for all time and so we heartily sing.

Sweet Notings Sharon Pires

The things you take for granted, someone else is praying for.

Yes friends, often we do not even realize how good God has been to us. We take many things for granted, be it our family, spouse, children, parents, relatives and friends. We take our jobs for granted, our health, our homes, the food we eat, the clothes we wear, the many luxuries we enjoy, our talents, our achievements --- the list goes on. Just stop and think if some of the persons in your life or the things you enjoy are suddenly taken away from you... what would your reaction be? Would you still be as content, would you miss this thing or person in your life and to what extent.? Most of us would have never even given this a thought. Frankly I happened to receive this message one morning while travelling by train and it made me stop and think. As I was gazing out of the window, I saw a little boy and girl begging for food on the platform, I overheard the person sitting across me telling someone on the phone, how much she misses her son who is away in Canada, another was sharing about a difficult boss and a low paying job, stating how hard it was to make ends meet. I have heard similar conversations before but this time it made me realize how fortunate I was! At that very moment I expressed sincere thanks to the Almighty for the generous blessings showered on me and my loved ones. How many in our country do not have the very basic necessities of life, how many experience loneliness, poor health and ill treatment from family and loved one! How many do not have a place to call home! I am so fortunate, I have so much and I should be sharing more and reaching out more often.

Thank you Lord for my home and family,
I have a place to return to each evening
For loving arms and sweet welcomes to engulf me
Thank you Lord for my job, that keeps me gainfully employed
And provides for my material needs and that of my family
Thank you for My Daily Bread that provides strength for my body and soul
Thank you for my friends, my associations, my talents
That make my life interesting and engaging
For my comfy bed, where I can retire and rest... energized for the new day
Thank you Lord for health and happiness, for life itself
Help me to never take these many blessings for granted
To know that it is your goodness that has showered these on me
Let me reach out in service and use them to spread your kingdom of love everywhere
I just want to say 'Thank you Lord for everything'

Spiritual Emphasis Report

Vocational Bible School

Jesus came into this world as a little babe, and was born in humble circumstances. He has also asked us to be children if we want to enter the kingdom of heaven. He said "bring the little children unto me". The innocence and inner beauty of little children is reflected in their actions and words, a peaceful and beautiful life - pure and free. We are called to be childlike and enjoy this life in abundance. Jesus came to give us the good news at Christmas. What better time than at Christmas to transform ourselves into little children, imbibing their qualities into the fabric of our lives, as our mighty Founder Jesus himself displayed!

Looking at the Christ child in the manger, we are encouraged to be like Him. Let us endeavour to make every effort to achieve this goal at Christmas this year. May the Spirit of Christmas and the Joy and Peace of the season be with you and your families.
