Top 3 Things you can do this Lenten Season

Annie Cardoz

In the hustle and bustle of daily life, we often lose sight of the timeless wisdom found in the Holy Bible. This Lenten season, let us reflect on the exemplary traits of Proverbs 31 on Woman and strive to embody this spirit in our own lives. The top three things to do are:

1. Cultivate Resilience and Courage:

As we face challenges and uncertainties in our lives, we must approach them with resilience and courage, taking inspiration from the fearless leadership of Deborah and the unwavering loyalty of Ruth. Trust in God's strength to guide you through difficult times, and with faith, all things are possible.

2. Extend Compassion and Kindness:

Follow in the footsteps of Esther, who showed compassion and care for her people. Reach out to those in need through acts of service, lending a listening ear, or offering a helping hand. By doing so, we reflect the love of God, making a meaningful difference.

3. Deepen Your Spiritual Connection and Faith:

Prioritize daily prayer and reflection on God's Word. Dive into the Scriptures, seek guidance and discernment through prayer and honour our faith's heritage, standing with all persecuted Christian believers worldwide and also the Jewish community who are hurting.

Let us embody the courage, strength and faith of Proverbs 31 and strive to live out these virtues not only during this Lenten season but every day, inspiring others and making a positive impact in our communities and beyond.

World Day of Prayer

Compiled by P. Christdoss

World Day of Prayer (WDP) is a global ecumenical movement that brings Christians of many traditions together to observe a common day of prayer each year. Through preparation and participation in the worship service, we can learn how our sisters of other countries, languages and cultures understand the Biblical passages in their context. We can hear their concerns and needs and can join in solidarity with them as we pray with and for them. In this way, it is possible to enrich our Christian faith as it grows deeper and broader in an international, ecumenical expression.

The motto of the World Day of Prayer movement is Informed Prayer and Prayerful Action. Through our participation in the World Day of Prayer, we affirm that prayer and action are inseparable and that both have immeasurable influence on the world.

Over 1.5 million Christians speaking 90 different languages in 150 countries come together in spirit, uniting to pray for relevant issues affecting women and children. This was the reality for this tremendous movement that has been active for nearly 100 years.

The World Day of Prayer is traditionally celebrated on the first Friday of March, though communities can choose other dates. A different participating country writes the service each year, and this year the Palestinian women prepared the WDP for 2024, with the theme of “I Beg You... Bear With One Another in Love” based on Ephesians 4:1-3. On March 1st 2024, Christians around the world will pray for Palestine using liturgy, prayer and music by Palestinian authors, clergy and artists. However, the role of women in Palestine (both historically and in modern times) is active and influential. They are steadfast, strong and courageous.

This programme calls us to bear with each other in love, despite all difficulties and oppression. The programme was written by a group of ecumenical Christian Palestinian women in response to the passage from Ephesians 4:1-7. They reflected collectively on this theme from the context of their suffering as Palestinian Christian women. They are hoping to inspire the other women around the world to bear with one another in love during troubled times.

The first three chapters of Ephesians discuss God's salvation and the gift of unity, while the last three chapters describe the response of believers to God's plan of salvation. This year's World Day of Prayer programme comes from the first six verses of chapter four. In these verses, Paul encourages the Ephesians to live a sanctified life, bearing with one another in humility and love in order to maintain the gift of unity that God had given them. Paul reminds the Ephesians that God chose both Gentiles and Jews to be saved, bringing together people of very different backgrounds through the shared promise guaranteed by Christ to all the members of his church. Paul urges the Ephesians to live a life worthy of the calling they received, as people united with one another through Christ's saving work.

This calling is not easy. It requires patience, self-denial and love. Paul reminds the Ephesians to be united in one spirit by the hope they share in Christ. So we Christians can also find our unity and hope in this text.

World Kidney Day (WKD) 14th March

Compiled by Rekha Joshi

Chronic Kidney Disease (CKD) is a progressive loss in kidney function over a period of months or years. The kidneys are made of millions of nephrons which, for a variety of reasons, stop working when you develop CKD. The more the nephrons shut down, the worse is the kidney function. Once this kidney function is lost, the few healthy nephrons left in the kidneys will not be able to filter the blood and keep the body healthy. Yet, it is possible to prevent or at least slow down the progression of CKD through an early diagnosis.

The symptoms of CKD and how we can detect the problem early enough to save our kidneys

- CKD usually has no symptoms at early stages. WKD recommends two things: you should have regular health check-ups including the functioning of your kidneys, and try to adopt a healthy lifestyle, which can reduce your chances to contract diabetes, hypertension, obesity and other risk factors that trigger CKD. If you already suffer from one or multiple of the aforementioned diseases, you are at an increased risk of developing CKD, and monitoring your kidney function regularly is particularly important.
- Detecting the loss of kidney function can be done by measuring your blood creatinine (to estimate how much blood is being filtered by the kidneys) and by a urine sample (to check whether there is protein in the urine). More specifically, the presence of urine albumin (a type of protein) indicates that there is risk of having CKD.

Animals have hearts that feel, eyes that see and families to care for, just like you and me. –Anthony Douglas Williams

World Wildlife Day –3rd March

Animals add diversity and beauty to nature that is rare, unparalleled and majestic. If we go on a safari, we all know the excitement when we spot a wild animal, be it a lion, tiger, leopard or bear and are quick to recount the tale back home. Imagine the forests and jungles devoid of animals. Would we still feel excited? The thrill would be missing. We need to conserve our wild life today.

Interesting and Rare Facts

1. A polar bear's hair is not white – it's colourless. Each thick strand of hair is hollow and reflects light, making the polar bear appear white. Beneath this transparent fur, the skin is black, to soak up any warmth from the sun and keep the bear as warm as possible.
2. A giraffe has seven bones in its neck, which is the same as a human has, but they are much larger.
3. The pattern of wrinkles on a gorilla's nose is unique to each one and is known as 'nose print'. Conservation workers use photos and sketches of gorillas' noses to keep track of individuals.
4. There are no male or female earthworms. All earthworms have both male and female parts – but it still takes two of them to reproduce.
5. A vampire bat's teeth are so sharp that its bite may not be felt at all. Their saliva dulls any pain, so a bat may drink its victim's blood for up to 30 minutes.
6. Hippos' closest living relatives are aquatic mammals: whales, dolphins and porpoises.
7. A chameleon's tongue is at least as long as its body, but it can grab prey in a fraction of a second.

PASI Committee organised a Debate Competition on 'Impact of Social Media on the Life of Students' for 70 students of Saboo Siddik Engineering College on 1st February.

The aim of organizing the debate competition was to encourage public speaking skills of the students and to enhance the importance of the impact of social media among students.

The competition started with a word of prayer by CP Priya Daniel. Tehseen Khan, Lecturer from Saboo Siddik Engineering College and CP Priya Daniel from YWCA of Bombay were the judges.

20 students from Saboo Siddik Engineering College participated in the event. Programme coordinator Papiya Chandra and Prof. Jyoti conducted the debate.

The winning team was awarded a trophy. Two best speakers were awarded prizes. All participants received a certificate of participation.

Exploring the History and Challenges of the Dalit Women's Movement (on Zoom)

Date : 8th February

No. of participants: 42

Resource Person:

Dr. Sheetal Kamble, TISS.

1. Dalit women were part of the anti-caste movement in India not because they faced discrimination and exploitation but because of their social position and social stratification in Indian society where they were treated as lower-caste women.
2. Dalit women were formerly untouchables in India and their dignity was always compromised by dominant men.
3. Dalit women argue that patriarchy needs to be reformed because not only gender determines the differences but also caste is the major source of exploitation.

4. The historical event of 1942 Kalaram Mandir entry and Mahada water tank Satyagraha is significant because most of the Dalit women participated and challenged the caste system and asked for equality.
5. In 1942 Babasaheb Ambedkar formed the Dalit Mahila Federation in Nagpur and passed the resolution for better working conditions for women working in mills, hostels for Dalit girls, the right to divorce and a law against bigamy.
6. In 1936 Mahila Parishad passed a resolution to reserve seats for Dalit women in the men's then provincial legal counsel, signifying consolidation of political consciousness.
7. In 1945 at the 3rd All India Untouchable Women's Conference hosted by the Federation at Nagpur, a separate organization for untouchable women was recognized.
8. From the early 1990s onwards, many autonomous Dalit women's organizations became visible giving rise to a political-ideological platform called Dalit feminism.
9. This became a catalyst for intense debates around the issue of caste and gender and their interrelations.
10. In December 1996 at 'Vikas Vanchit Mahila Parishad' (Marginalized Dalit Women Conference) at Chandrapur, Parishad President Dr. Parameela Leela Sampat put forth the proposal to commemorate December 25th as Bharatiya Stree Mukti Din (Indian Women's Liberation Day).

11. The ensuing debates highlight the issues of caste, gender, and religion and their complex relationship to each other. In 1998, Gopal Guru's essay titled 'Dalit Women Talk Differently' advanced the debates on the relationship between Dalit politics and feminist politics.
12. Dalit women face the challenge of negotiating equal status with Dalit men and mainstream feminist women in Dalit and feminist movements.

33% Reservation for Women - Prospects, Shortcomings and Challenges

Women's representation in politics in India has been a topic of discussion for several years, and though progress has been made, there is still a long way to go. Here are some ways forward to improve women's representation in politics:

- Reservation of Seats: Reservation of seats for women in local bodies and legislative assemblies has been a successful way to increase women's representation in politics. More of such reservation policies could be implemented to provide women with greater opportunities to participate in the decision-making processes.

- Increasing Awareness and Education: Creating awareness among women about their rights, and the importance of their participation in politics, is essential. Educational programmes and awareness campaigns can help to increase women's political participation.

- Addressing Gender-based Violence and Harassment: Gender-based violence and harassment are major obstacles to women's participation in politics. Addressing these issues through policy and legal measures can create a safer and more supportive environment for women in politics.

- Reforms in the Electoral Process: Reforms such as introducing proportional representation and preferential voting systems can help increase women's representation in politics, by ensuring that more women get elected.

These are only a few approaches to increase the number of women in Indian politics. To effect long-lasting change, a multifaceted strategy, which addresses multiple challenges, is required.

The main aim is to enhance women's right to self-representation and self-determination.

- The Women's Reservation Bill proposes to reserve 33% of seats in the Lok Sabha and State Legislative Assemblies for women.

- Reserved seats may be allotted by rotation to different constituencies in the State or Union Territory.

- Reservation of seats for women shall cease to exist 15 years after the Bill comes into force as an Act.

Shortcomings and Challenges

- Reserving seats for women is opposed by some who claim that doing so violates the Constitution's guarantee of equality. They claim that if seats are reserved, then women will not be competing on merit, which could decrease their status in society.

Arguments in Favour of the Bill:

- Affirmative action is necessary to better the condition of women, as political parties are inherently patriarchal.

- Women are still under-represented in Parliament, and reservations will ensure that women can form a strong lobby to fight for issues that are often ignored.

- More women in decision-making positions are needed to address the high percentage of crimes against women, low participation of women in the workforce, low nutrition levels, and skewed sex ratio.

Picnic and Ekta

Divya John

On 3rd Feb the YWCA of Bombay had a memorable Ekta-cum-picnic for all its members at Jeneva Farms, a resort near Gorai Beach. Two buses were arranged for the journey, creating a lively atmosphere filled with songs and laughter as members embarked on the two-hour drive. Upon arrival, the day kicked off with a delicious spread of breakfast, setting the stage for a day filled with camaraderie and meaningful activities.

The highlight of the picnic was the programme presentation, where each area showcased skits and depictions on the important topic of Save the Girl Child. The presentations were insightful and impactful, sparking thought-provoking discussions.

Following the presentations, the day continued with a variety of games and activities, adding to the fun and excitement. Laughter echoed across the resort as members engaged in friendly competition and enjoyed each other's company.

Amidst the games and activities, a sumptuous lunch was served, providing a moment of relaxation and nourishment for the participants. Energized and rejuvenated, the group eagerly participated in a unique twist on the classic game of Housie, followed by a lucky draw where members had the chance to win exciting gifts.

As the day drew to a close, a fun-filled picture session captured the joy and camaraderie shared by all. Smiles adorned the faces of the participants as they reminisced about the memorable moments of the day.

The YWCA of Bombay picnic was not just a day of leisure, but also a day of community-building and meaningful discussions. It provided a platform for members to come together, bond, and explore important issues facing society. As members boarded their respective buses and bid farewell to the resort, they carried with them cherished memories and a renewed sense of camaraderie, eagerly anticipating future gatherings with their YWCA family.
